SPIRIT OF THE AGE.
Wednesday, Oct. 27, 1880.

From our regular correspondent
WASHINGTON LETTER.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 23, 1880.

There is now a more buoyant feeling among the Democrats here than existed right after the October elections. This is not only the case here, but reports received at the Congressional Committee headquarters indicate sanguine hopes and energetic work among the supporters of Hancock and English all over the Union. It must be admitted that the result in Indiana was a disappointment, yet I think some of the best informed Democrats here were less sanguine than the majority of them elsewhere, for the reason that we here knew better than anybody else the scheming and unscrupulous character of the men in charge of the Republican canvass there, and the full extent of the appliances and resources at their command. We knew all about the systematic negro colonization begun last winter and continued gradually up to within a few days of the election. No less than five thousand of the negroes passed through this city from time to time. Washington Democrats also knew the power exerted by the administration in behalf of the radical ticket and the fabulous sums of money—amounting to over one million dollars—sent into the state and distributed through every district for the purchase of votes. It was said that the Republicans greatly missed Senator Morton in this campaign, but I think not. Washingtonians know that Senator Dorsey of the National Committee, who was in charge here, without possessing any of the higher abilities of Morton, just as much cunning and more unscrupulousness—in fact is a greater schemer and political scoundrel than Morton ever dared be, which is just what the radical party of to-day demands.

But for the November contest things are very different. Victory for Hancock is in the air, and all the shouting of radical clans over a dearly bought triumph in October can not avert it. From New York, New Jersey, California, Nevada, Maine and even Indiana come the best cheering reports. There is scarcely a reasonable doubt of the four states first named, while in Indiana the conditions that existed in October can not possibly exist in November. The funds will not hold out for another such exhibition of wholesale bribery. Department clerks and other employees are complaining bitterly because another assessment has been levied upon them. After the Ohio and Indiana elections, they came out of the "cave of gloom" into which Maine cast them, but still they do not like to pay too much for the whistle, especially as it is a mighty uncertain case yet. The radical organ here in publishing a notice of the new levy says: "This will be a good opportunity for those who have as yet paid nothing to themselves on record as republicans. These, too, who have endeavored to make friends of the mammon unrighteousness by contributing to both political committees can get down on the right side of the fence. A carefully prepared list has been made of all the various grades of contributors for future reference." That sounds a good deal like a contemptible sort of bull-dozing. And while the administration and the party is thus engaged let them prepare for another surprise. This has been a campaign of surprises. First came Maine and then Indiana. The next state that will create a sensation will be Pennsylvania or Illinois, or it may be that several states will take a hand. The situation in Virginia is now the only source of concern in the Democratic councils and it is believed that some way out of the possible danger there will be speedily found. It is unfortunate that a demagogue anywhere should have power to thwart the interests of a whole state if not of the nation.

The tariff question, sprung at the last moment, was more or less effective in October, but it promises to react. Protected manufacturers are beginning to see not only that the danger that they were made to fear was a sham, but that there is, after all, a real one likely to come out of forcing the tariff into a whirlpool of party politics. Should they appeal to the country in the next Congressional elections upon the issue of protection or non-protection, the result would be an overwhelming majority in opposition to them. More than half the Republican party and Republican press is for free trade, and at least two-thirds of the Democratic strength would be arrayed on that side if it were the sole issue. The welfare of the agricultural classes, the mercantile interests and the carrying trade is antagonistic to protection. If they are solidly arrayed against the manufacturers protection must go to the wall. It begins to dawn upon the minds of these men that bulldozing their employees in the interests of any party will not pay, but that what they want is a careful revision and adjustment of our tariff laws by the co-operation of both parties, as contemplated by Senator Eaton's bill. Mr. Abram S. Hewitt, of New York, one of the most extensive manufacturers in the country, employing 4,000 men, hit the nail on the head when he said the other night in a speech, that if the parties were going to join issue on the tariff question they ought to exchange candidates, for Hancock is a Pennsylvanian and opposed to free trade, while Garfield is an out and out free-trader in theory and a member of the Cobden Club, of London, a free-trade organization. Oracles Cleveland, of New Jersey, head of one of the largest concerns in that State, says that if any establishment in the State is closed because of Hancock's election he will open it the next morning with a full force, retaining all the old hands. This issue will have to be taken in by the Republicans, as was the bloody shirt and Southern claims begone.

Never, probably, in the history of the country have there been more gross frauds in elections than in Indiana and Ohio this fall. In Franklin county there were more votes cast—counted—than there are men in the city over 21 years old. This year's census shows only 10,132 male adults in the city; the vote reported is 11,862. Considering how many unnaturalized men there must be, the fraud in this case cannot be below 2000. This is only one of the many instances where the vote was enormously and fraudulently swollen. Over 400 deputy marshals were appointed in Indiana in the last days to do partisan work for the Republicans. The Democratic national committee were well satisfied the week before election, and admitted it in private, that they should lose Indiana. Their disposition very likely was good enough, but they hadn't the money to match the corruption fund which the Republicans sent out, so that they had to stand and see their majority bought away from them. Over $200,000 was sent from Philadelphia in the last fortnight, and the New York World claims to know that one express company carried over $800,000 more. Affairs have almost reached that pass in this country when the only question as to which party will carry an election is, which has the most money? Rome in her worst days, never had more debauched elections. This corruption is growing worse every year, and is eating into the very marrow of our free institutions.

That Chinese Letter.

A reporter of the Union met last Saturday night, Mr. Edgar E. Mann of Lawrence, Mass., a man experienced in business and public life, who has spent much time in Washington. In conversation between the reporter and Mr. Mann, the matter of Garfield's Chinese letter came up, and Mr. Mann asserted that he himself had known A. L. Morey for many years; that he knew him as a shoe-manufacturer and dealer in Lynn; that he had met him in Lynn, in Lawrence and in Washington, D. C., where he, Mann, spent much of his time winters. Moreover he asserted that he knew this man, Morey, to be a personal acquaintance of James A. Garfield, and that he had himself met the two together. To the truth of these statements Mr. Mann declares his readiness to make oath. [From the Manchester Union].

A bill has been introduced in the Vermont Legislature requiring that packages of oleomargarine be stamped on the top and side of the packages in letters one-half an inch long, "oleomargarine," and also that when retail certificates stating the article to be oleomargarine must be given the purchaser. The fine for selling unbranded packages was placed at $100.

GENERAL NEWS

—It is said that over 10,000 deer were slaughtered in Jackson county, Oregon, during the past nine months. —George Lovell, who lived near Charleston, in the southern part of the State of Missouri, quarrelled with his wife Friday evening about some property belonging to her, beat her brains out with a flat-iron and then cut his own throat from ear to ear. —James Fox, employed on the pilot boat Richard Simonds, at St. John N. B., fell between it and the wharf, yesterday, and was crushed to a shapeless mass.

—The religious movements against "banged" hair is extending. Bishop Elder of Cincinnati has issued a prohibitory order on the subject. —A party of ladies and gentlemen, while cruising about on a steam yacht, Monday, overtook a bear swimming across the river, near Turso, Ont., and after considerable difficulty captured and took him to Ottawa alive.

—The Cincinnati, Enquirer remarks that the vote cast in Indiana at the State election "runs ahead of the census of male inhabitants over twenty-five years of age with such uniformity that the skill in distributing colonized voters is amply attested."

—James Vegas, who killed his father, at Kokomo, Indiana, in June last, has been sentenced to the penitentiary for life.

—Estabrook's livery stable at Denver (Col.), with 60 head of horses and other contents, were burned on Thursday. Loss, $65,000.

—A company with a capital of $600,000, for the manufacture of improved cattle cars, has been incorporated at Cincinnati.

—Horace Davis, freight brakeman on the Stonington and Providence railroad, was struck by a bridge near East Greenwich, Conn. Thursday afternoon and instantly killed.

—The Oregon Legislature has passed the constitutional amendment in favor of woman suffrage; in the senate 21 to 9 and in the house 89 to 27.

—Belinda Conkling was trampled to death on Friday by a horse in a field, through which she was passing, at Branchville, N. J.

—A rather singular feature of the Boston produce market is that good rye straw brings a better price than the best hay, being worth $54 a ton.

—Will you and your son occupy one room? asked a hotel clerk of a woman of 35, who arrived at Omaha with a boy of 16. "This is not my son," she said, with emphasis, "but my husband. We are on our bridal tour."

—Three Irishmen were sitting beside a pile of lumber at Hunter's Point, R. I., Friday, when the pile fell over burying them beneath a weight of tons. All were seriously injured and recovery is doubtful.

VERMONT

—Oats are still to weigh thirty-two pounds to a bushel. The house killed the bill to reduce the standard to thirty pounds.

—M. E. Kimball, Esq., of North Haverhill, New Hampshire, sends a twin pumpkin to the state cabinet at Montpelier. They are united by a solid band as firmly as the Siamese twins.

—At Irazburgh Thursday, as a five-years-old son of Lieut. Gov. Colton was climbing upon a loaded wagon, the horses started and a wheel passed over his body killing him.

—Work on the Darkee freestone ledge in Stockbridge has finally ceased, the proprietors not thinking the prospect good enough to warrant a further outlay.

—The punishment of the crime for which Wood and Mrs. Smith, the Williston murderers, were convicted is imprisonment for life. Their counsel took exceptions.

—A few months since John Cole, of Danville, attempted to cure a wart on one of his fingers by applying acid. As a result of not taking proper care of the finger it was found necessary to amputate it.

—Marcus D. Gilman of Montpelier, the librarian of the Vermont Historical society, has completed the bibliography of Vermont, the list comprising about 6,000 titles, and being a work of immense labor.

—The amount of deposits in the savings banks of Vermont have increased nearly a million dollars during the past year. Another indication of prosperity.

—James Ranger and several others who were out on a con hunt in Mendon encountered three bears, one of which they killed with an ax. The other two got away.

—In Washington county supreme court at Montpelier, to-day, Royal S. Carr, convicted of murdering a half-breed Indian, William Wallace McCormack, at Worcester, was sentenced to be hanged at Windsor state prison on the last Friday in April, 1881.

—According to the newspaper reports the chaplain of the House gave thanks in his prayer, one morning recently for the "good news" just received. It was a most disgusting exhibition of partisanship.

NEW HAMPSHIRE

—J. R. Farrington of Conway, is locating a railroad from that town through Swift river valley west of Saco, and eventually to terminate near the Fabry house.

—A 20 pound pike was caught in Lake Spofford, Chesterfield, recently, by Miss Alice Farr.

—The proprietors of the woollen, hosiery, and other principal manufacturers of Laconia, have issued a circular denying the Republican claim as to ruin of business if Hancock should be elected, and giving convincing reasons why the reverse would prove true.

—A. L. Davis of Laconia has contracted to build the new Episcopal church edifice in Woodsville, and has commenced the work.

Garfield and Laboring Men.

The Democrats have published a letter, which they claim Gen. Garfield wrote to H. L. Morey of Lynn, Mass., last winter, declaring himself in favor of employing Chinese in this country. It reads: "I take it that the question of employes is only a question of private and corporate economy, and individuals or companies have the right to buy labor where they can get it the cheapest." So far there would be nothing to his discredit in the letter, if he hadn't jumped on to the other side of the question in his letter of acceptance. But it goes on to say: "We have a treaty with the Chinese government which should be religiously kept until its provisions are abrogated by the action of the general government, and I am not prepared to say that it should be abrogated until our great manufacturing interests are conserved in the matter of labor."

This means precisely that he believes the Chinese ought to be employed so as to bring down the prices of labor in this country.

In other words, if he is a protectionist, as he now pretends to be, he believes an exorbitant tariff should be maintained to enable manufacturers to get high prices for their goods which laboring people purchase, while the government helps them to beat down far below the European, to the Chinese standard, the prices paid for labor.

Garfield sees the damaging effect which the letter must have on his canvass, and pronounces it a forgery. Abram S. Hewitt, everywhere recognized as an honest man, says he has seen it, and declares it to be in Garfield's handwriting. So does W. H. Barstow and a number of others, and they say no expert would hesitate a minute in so deciding. [Brattleboro Reformer.]

GODEY'S LADY'S BOOK for November is full of interesting matter. Darley's facile pencil gives us another scene from Dickens' works, "Little Nell and her grandfather," escaping from the fair. In the Novelty Page we have some new and quaint designs for the new fancy work, etching embroidery, and, as usual, page after page of hints for ladies' costumes. The Diagram is a combination dress for a little girl, either a smock costume or a princess dress, as the fancy of the maker dictates, or both, if a trifling addition is made to the princess dress. The literary matter is fully up to its usual standard of excellence. Christian Reid's popular novel is continued, and there are capital stories and poems from the pens of well known writers. We learn that Godey's Lady's Book will contain a complete novel in every number in 1881, and that each issue will be complete in itself. We will furnish the Age and Godey's Lady's Book for one year at the low price of $3 00 on application at this office.

BALLOU'S MONTHLY MAGAZINE FOR NOVEMBER.—The leading article in Ballou's Monthly Magazine for the month of November is an illustrated paper on Madeira, told in a gossip way that is quite entertaining and instructive, and then follow several engravings which the reader will like. "Marian's Old Aunt" is growing more interesting as the novel proceeds, and the plot is developed; and then comes a table of contents that cannot be excelled by any publication in this country. Now is the time to subscribe for this popular and cheap magazine. Published by Thomas & Talbot, 23 Hawley Street, Boston, Mass., at $1.50 per annum, postpaid, and for sale at all the news depots in the country at 15 cents a copy.

Every one of Grant's statements about Hancock proves to be either a stupid blunder or a wilful lie.

The Utica Observer propounds the following timely conundrum: Suppose that 200 Democratic employees of the Republican "business men" should hold a meeting, and declare that their employers ought to vote for Hancock, how would the "business men" treat such a declaration.

He who makes a great fuss about doing good will do very little; he who wishes to be seen and noticed when he is doing good will not do it long.

Voltaire "Tolt Co., Marshall, Mich." Will send their celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belt to the afflicted upon 30 days trial. Speedy cures guaranteed. They mean what they say. Write to them without delay.

PEARLINE.—With this article, it is claimed, the family washing can be done with ease, with economy and despatch, and as it is thoroughly disinfectant, it will be seen that whenever used the result is pure and healthful. As there are imitations of this in the market, be sure and get the genuine, manufactured only by James Pyle, New York.

One of our prominent business men said the other day, "In the spring my wife got all run down and could not eat anything; passing your store I saw a pile of Hood's Sarsaparilla in the window, and I got a bottle. After she had been taking it a week she had a rousing appetite, and it did her everything. She took three bottles, and it was the best three dollars I ever invested." Dear reader will you try a bottle and be convinced of its great value.

"Mother has Recovered," wrote an Illinois girl to her Eastern relatives. "She took bitters for a long time but without any good. So when she heard of the virtues of Kidney-Wort she got a box and it has completely cured her, so that she can do as much work now as she could before we moved West. Since she has got well everyone about here is taking it." See advertisement.

A BRAVE LADY!
She Endures the Pain of a severe Surgical Operation Without Taking Chloroform.
(From the Courier.)
Mrs. Schenckmaker, of Creek Locks, Ulster Co., N. Y., had the misfortune to entirely lose the sight of one of her eyes, through an accident, and endured painful inflammatory action therein for two long years; the other eye finally becoming sympathetically affected, her general health seriously suffering; indeed, she was a mere wreck, a wasting skeleton. In this terrible state she consulted Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, N. Y., who told her at once that the injured eye must be removed, the quickly but firmly said: "All right, but don't give me chloroform. Let my husband aid by my side during the operation, and I will neither cry out or stir." The work was done, and the poor woman kept her word. Talk of soldierly courage! This showed greater pluck than it takes to face a hundred guns. To restore her general health and give tone and strength to the system, Dr. Kennedy then gave her the "Favorite Remedy," which cleansed the blood and imparted new life to the long suffering woman. She rapidly gained flesh and strength, and is now well. The "Favorite Remedy" is a priceless blessing to woman. No family should be without it. Your druggist has it. If not, send to Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, New York.
